

EMERGING ARTISTS PROGRAM

July 5 (Thursday) to July 21, 2018 (Saturday night)
Free to Participants • Application due March 26, 2018

The Mendocino Music Festival is offering twelve string players full scholarships for the 2018 Season. This program is limited to serious musicians between the ages of 18 and 26. The Emerging Artists Program includes coaching in an intensive 2 ½ weeks of chamber music as well as participation in the MMF Orchestra in the company of professional musicians from the Bay Area, local artists, and soloists of national and international renown. The Festival, now in its 32nd season, takes place in one of the most spectacular spots on the northern California coast. More complete information about the Mendocino Music Festival is available on the website at www.mendocinomusic.org.

THE PROGRAM: Participants should arrive in Mendocino on the afternoon of Thursday, July 5, and remain through Saturday, July 21. Participants will perform in a chamber music recital and three orchestral concerts, each one with a different program. You will be notified of your acceptance by April 3, 2018. Once accepted into the program a $100 deposit payable to the Mendocino Music Festival is required of all applicants. Each participant will receive a $200 stipend and the return of their $100 deposit on July 5.

Host families will provide participants with lodging, kitchen privileges and, in some cases, breakfast. Although the MMF will provide substantial morning snacks on orchestra rehearsal days at the Festival tent, participants are expected to provide for their own meals and transportation.

Cellist Julie Feldman directs the program and is assisted by Jay Zhong, Susan Freier and Stephen Harrison. Julie performs regularly with the Symphony Silicon Valley and freelances with many Bay Area groups. She has been Director of Chamber Music at the Marin Academy for 18 years, as well as Branson School, and has an active private teaching studio in Berkeley. For many years she was a member of the New York Chamber Soloists, touring in Europe as well as the United States, and she continues to work with a number of East Coast ensembles.

Jay Zhong began studying the violin at age four and started his professional career with a recital on the main stage of New York's Carnegie Hall. He has earned critical acclaim for his solo recitals and chamber music performances across four continents of the globe. He has been a full time professor and master class teacher in many universities throughout the United States. Jay has recorded Ysaye's Six Solo Violin Sonatas and written his pedagogical findings in his book, "A Violinist's handbook, A Simpler Manual to Learn the Instrument." He is currently the Associate Concertmaster for the Santa Rosa Symphony and is on the music faculty of Sonoma State University.

Susan Freier, an internationally known violinist and longtime member of the Ives Quartet at Stanford University, performs with the S.F. Contemporary Chamber Players. She earned degrees from Stanford and Eastman School of Music and was asked to join the Chester Quartet, which went on to win the Evian, Munich International, Portsmouth and Chicago Discovery competitions. She has been a participant at the Aspen Grand Teton and Newport festivals, and has recordings on a number of prestigious labels. Formerly an artist-faculty member of the Pacific Music Center, she now teaches and performs at the Orfeo, Telluride, and San Diego music festivals.

Cellist Stephen Harrison has been a member of the Stanford University faculty since 1983, when he returned to his native Bay Area to co-found the Stanford String Quartet. In 1998 he became the founding cellist of the Ives Quartet and is now co-Artistic Director of the Ives Collective. These ensembles have commissioned works from composers such as William Bolcom, Ben Johnston, Elinor Armer, and Dan Becker. Cellist of the San Francisco Contemporary Music Players since 1986, he has performed internationally and recorded for the Naxos, Music and Arts, CRI, New Albion, Newport Classics, AIX, New World and Bridge recording labels.
